THE FOUNDATION BEFORE AN ISSUE

Government and Civil Society Lay Groundwork for Legal Aid

The foundation helped establish a sustainable legal aid program that will make Ukraine's justice system accessible to indigent and marginalized defendants. A joint effort of the foundation, the Open Society Justice Initiative, the Viktor Pinchuk Foundation, and the Ministry of Justice, the legal aid office provides legal advice and representation to defendants unable to afford attorneys. The office is the first of two pilot centers for the Kyiv region that will provide models for developing a national legal aid system.

It may have been, but the concert, which cost Mr. Pinchuk more than $5 million, was also the latest, most lavish stage for his own uneven metamorphosis from grasping, post-Soviet oligarch to international mover and shaker. Now, he calls the likes of the financier George Soros and former President Bill Clinton friends.

Schoen, a Democratic operative who began foreign lobbying work for Pinchuk for $40,000 per month beginning in 2000, arranged April 2016 meetings for Bielikova with national security professionals, including Ciaramella, at the behest of Pinchuk. Schoen's filing under the Foreign Agents Registration Act stated he didn't attend these meetings personally and that the topic of the meetings was "the Ukrainian progress in energy reform during the past year and what steps must be done in the future to increase energy independence."

Victor Pinchuk, a steel magnate whose father-in-law, Leonid Kuchma, was president of Ukraine from 1994 to 2005, has directed between $10 million and $25 million to the foundation. He has lent his private plane to the Clintons and traveled to Los Angeles in 2011 to attend Mr. Clinton's star-studded 65th birthday celebration.

DOUG SCHOEN

Schoen has worked for both Bill and Hillary Clinton.

Schoen helped Pinchuk establish ties with the Clinton Foundation. The Wall Street Journal reported how Schoen connected Pinchuk with senior Clinton State Department staffers in order to pressure former Ukrainian President Yanukovych to release Yulia Tymoshenko – a political rival of Yanukovych – from jail.

A Foreign Agents Registration Act filing shows that the meeting was arranged by Doug Schoen, a longtime Hillary Clinton ally and registered foreign lobbyist for Ukrainian billionaire Victor Pinchuk. The same day, Schoen arranged for Bielikova to meet with David Kramer, who flew to Britain in 2016 to meet former MI6 spy Christopher Steele, author of a dossier containing incendiary allegations about President Trump.

Doug Schoen filed FARA documents showing that he was paid $40,000 a month by Victor Pinchuk (page 5) – in part to arrange these meetings.

Doug Schoen, was up until 11/19 an active foreign lobbyist for Ukrainian oligarch Victor Pinchuk.

Schoen worked for Pinchuk for 20yrs (!) before abruptly terminating & joining Team Bloomberg.

In 2004, Schoen introduced Pinchuk to Bill and Hillary Clinton.

Bielikova met with Ciaramella and his colleague, Lisa Bryant, then the director for Eastern Europe on the National Security Council, on April 12, 2016, at Le Dim Quisiliées, on 17th Street N.W., a block from the White House. The same day, Bielikova also met with State Department official Michael Kimmage and, separately, with Kramer of the McCain institute. Kramer figures prominently in the Trump-Russia saga — he met with Steele in December 2016 at Heathrow Airport to obtain a copy of the British ex-spy's unverified dossier and provided information from it to over a dozen journalists after the presidential election.
